Don McPherson Donald "Don" McPherson (June 10, 1921 – August 14, 2002) was an American composer. Early life and education Don McPherson was born in Denver, Colorado. He spent his early childhood living in Nevada, and while attending high school in Des Moines, Iowa, his family moved to Kansas. In the fall of 1941 McPherson enrolled at Washburn University in Topeka, where he studied piano under David Allen Phillips, folk music under Julian Lomax, and composition under Charles Weidman. He graduated in 1944 with a Bachelor of Music degree. World War II and after He served in the United States Army Air Corps from 1944 until 1946, and after the war, attended the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA) where he earned a Master of Music degree in composition in 1949. In 1954 he accepted a position as Professor of Music at the State University of Iowa, where he founded the college's music program and was Director of the Iowa Repertory Singers. He taught at the university until retirement in 1982. During his teaching career he was the first to hire a professional staff of music educators and committed himself to the building of facilities for performance, including the construction of the Bob Cole Studios as a home for the school's woodwind and ensemble group and the Iowa Conservatory. He also worked with the County Audubon Society on such projects as "The Big Pond Project" and "The Gutting Project," which destroyed ponds to preserve walleye habitat. He composed more than 50 works over a period of 30 years, including a two-hour ballet composed for the University of Iowa's Iowa Repertory Singers, Singing Fish, which was presented at the 1972 National Federation of Music Clubs convention in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He composed chamber music, a song cycle, a symphonic poem, and several songs. Selected works Stage Singing Fish (ballet), 1969 Trickster (play), 1973 Orchestral The Puzzle of God, 1969 The Tree of Life, 1973 Crisp Presents (operetta), 1975 The Hill of Forty Thieves (operetta), 1987 Haunting, 2000 Concert The Nine Muses, 1964 Crowns, 1985 Chamber music Caprice for alto saxophone, solo piano, and percussion, 1966 Song Cycle, for
